The Half Drawn Shade.

You can see in a room with the shade partly drawn, but you can see better if you have more light. That is the principle of glasses. They let more light into the eye because they correct defects in refraction. More light reaches and stimulates the optic nerve. Come in and let our optometrist explain just how glasses work. You will understand then why they are such a great benefit to so many people—and will be to you.

Sharpen your Discs by the cold roll process. The only perfect way. It saves all the material, retains the perfect shape, gives them a knife edge and makes the edge a little harder. DUAL ROLE FOR JAP IN "BONDS OF HONOR"

Hayawaka's Latest Drama Provides Double Part for Eminent Japanese Actor Supported by Tsuri Aoki, His Pretty Wife.

Susue Hayawaka, the renowned Japanese actor, who is ranked by critics as the premier actor of the screen today, has big dramatic moments in his latest production, "Bonds of Honor," the theme of which is built around the reverence of the Japanese for the honor of the family name. The production was made by the Haworth Pictures Corporation and released through the exchanges of Exhibitors Mutual.

The story throws an interesting light on the traditions of the Samurai, or ruling class, of Japan. In this intensely dramatic story Hayawaka plays a dual role, that of twin brothers, Yamashiro and Sadao, sons of Count Sakurai, who is high in the councils of state of the Flowery Kingdom. Sadao has brought disgrace upon the family name by delivering important plans to German intriguers, and has fled to Russia with the spies. Yamashiro offers to avenge his brother's crime and places himself at the disposal of the high officials. How he clears the stain from the family honor and restores the plans to his country is told in a drama of power and emotional climaxes that hold to the final denouement.

The two entirely contrasting characters call upon all the resources of this great actor, who succeeds in presenting distinctive characterization convincingly.

Dainty Tsuri Aoki, who has an appointment in real life. Others who make up the notable cast are Maria Sals, Herschell Mayall, Toyo Fugita and M. Soshida.

The production was made under the direction of William Worthington, who directed "His Birthright," the first picture made by the Haworth Company. Sun theatre, Wednesday and Thursday.

WEDDING BELLS WILL RING THIS EVENING

This evening wedding bells are to ring for two of North Platte's most popular young folks, popular not only in the social, but also in the business circles of our town and county.

Miss Aileen Gantt spent her childhood in North Platte, attending our public schools in the grades, finishing her schooling in Lincoln where she completed a four years course in the university. After teaching four successful years in the North Platte high school she was elected to the office of county superintendent, which office she is now holding. Not only the town, but the county has been benefited by her efficient work.

Captain Cochran is nearly a North Platte product, having made his way at least in the county. After having served as county surveyor, he was appointed assistant state engineer under Governor Neville, and while holding that office answered the call of his country and served as an orienteering officer in charge of a training school at Limoges, France. Having been in service fourteen months he has returned to his former position, receiving a re-appointment from the new state administration.

U. P. Loses Big Shipment.

Some time ago the Union Pacific was notified that two hundred thousand tons of Hawaiian raw sugar would be routed over its line and at the local offices preparations for moving this big tonnage were being made. The latter part of last week, however, the local officers were notified that the order had been rescinded and that the sugar would be carried to New York by boat via the Panama canal.

To have carried this sugar would have required one hundred and thirty-three trains of 1500 net tons each.

Labor Bureau to Close.

The federal labor bureau in this city along with several hundred others scattered throughout the country, will close next Saturday, congress having failed to make an appropriation for that purpose, and the funds for the maintenance of the bureau are exhausted. Washington officials have sent out the suggestion that these bureaus be maintained by the business men of the towns where the bureaus are located. Whether the business men of North Platte care to assume this additional burden is for them to decide.

I have recently called in my service Mr. W. H. Searls, who is an expert plow man of 30 years practical experience in the farming country of the middle west. Rest assured your plow will be put in the proper condition making it a real satisfaction when you start spring plowing. Bring your plows here for the best work.

THROWN FROM AN AUTO AND ARE BADLY INJURED

Ezra Dowhower and Wiley Crane were among those who attended a dance at the Echelberry residence, east of town, Saturday evening. The roads leading to the Echelberry home were in awful shape and several of the autos used were stuck and Dowhower and Crane helped push them out. Having performed this service they jumped on the running board of a big car to ride home, Dowhower holding to the door and Crane to the top rods. The car though moving slowly slipped into a deep rut and the lurch threw open the door and Dowhower was pitched twenty feet, landing on his head. He was rendered unconscious, and taken to a hospital where he remained in that condition until eight o'clock yesterday morning, when he regained consciousness. He suffered but few bruises, as he landed in the mud. Crane attempted to catch Dowhower, lost his balance and fell from the car and in falling was struck on the right side of the face with the hub of the rear wheel and badly bruised. His cheek is cut, his eye discolored and there are bruises on his forehead.

Nicely Entertained.

Speaking of the visit of the Oshkosh basketball team to North Platte, the Oshkosh News says: Upon arriving at North Platte both of the Platte teams were at the depot and each player took one of the Oshkosh team home with him or her and entertained them for their entire stay in town. After the games the high school gave a short reception to the Garden county people. Games were played and light refreshments served. The home teams hate to admit the big score run up on them but they are glad to say that the North Platte people are the best entertainers they have met this year.

Eggs for Setting.
